Sporting Heritage Project Updates

Join Our Amazing Team!
Part of the Kickstart Scheme

We are so excited to announce two new roles as part of the kickstart scheme. Interested? Contact your work coach.

- Social Media Assistant
- Programme Assistant – The Neurodiverse Museum

The Kickstart Scheme is a 6 month paid job with Sporting Heritage, funded by the Government. It provides a fully funded job opportunity for young people to gain experience of working with our national organisation, developing key skills and knowledge.

Am I eligible for Kickstart?

Jobs from the Kickstart Scheme are open to 16–24-year-olds, who are claiming Universal Credit, and are at risk of long-term unemployment. If you have a Work Coach talk to them about the Kickstart Scheme and find out whether it's right for you.

What does Kickstart offer me?

Kickstart Scheme jobs are normally 25 hours per week and pay at least the National Minimum Wage or National Living Wage depending on how old you are. You will be paid by your employer and depending on your circumstance, you may continue to receive Universal Credit once you start work. Find out more about how your earnings affect your payments on gov.uk: How your earnings affect your payments.

Not only will you be in a paid 6-month job, you will also be receiving additional employability support to help boost your employment prospects in the future.

Sporting Heritage and Education Higher, Faster, Stronger...Together!

Endeavouring to keep pace with the incredible summer of sport over the last month, the Education section of the website will soon be populated with the latest of our growing series of online resources for the start of the new academic year in September! These latest, exciting editions will include:

- The development of Women's Cricket, produced in conjunction with the Berkshire Cricket Foundation and including interviews with past England all-time great, Charlotte Edwards and current star of The Hundred, Lauren Bell - as well as a narrated history of the game by the world's leading authority on its heritage, Dr Raf Nicholson.

- A Rounders Heritage resource, produced with Rounders England, featuring an interview with the inspirational Dana Abdulkarim - the first Muslim woman to captain and subsequently coach England in any sport.

Think...

What are the three most important things that you have learned about Dana?

What personal qualities and values does Dana's story illustrate?

How has Dana story inspired you?

- A case study on Viv Anderson, Britain's first Black international footballer, as the first in a series of resources inspired by Bill Hern and David Gleave's brilliant 'Football's Black Pioneers', tracing the experiences of the first black players to be signed by England's football league clubs.

Two common features of all the resources are the valued contribution of a range partners, and their flexible design; the intent is provide material which can interpreted by users to address a variety of learning themes suitable for a equally wide range of age groups.

Also on the central theme of partnership, it's a great privilege to be presenting Sporting Heritage's Education Strategy at St.Mary's University, Twickenham on 27 August at the Annual Conference of the British Society of Sports History (BSSH), one of our fantastic long-term partners.

And as Olympic High Jumpers Barshim and Gianmarco Tamberi can both recently testify, great things can always be achieved together in sport!

NEW DATE

New Approaches to Collecting Sporting Heritage – Workshop 3 Friday 17 September, 10am – 11am

This series of webinars has interrogated our approach to collecting and preserving the nation's sporting heritage. We will look to explore what sporting heritage organisations can do to develop new and democratic approaches to collecting that involve our audiences, communities and others to develop richer, more representative and socially engaged sporting collections.

The first two sessions are now available in the webinar archive on the Sporting Heritage YouTube channel.

In this rescheduled third session we will look at how we can work with our audiences and local communities to gather unique, diverse and personal perspectives on our collections. The workshop will feature guest contribution from Sarah Priestley, Curator at Watford Museum. Sarah leads ongoing work in partnership with Watford Football Club and supporters to gather diverse memories and perspectives on the history of the club (www.watfordmuseum.org.uk/goal-den-years).

This workshop is open to anyone who works with sporting heritage collections, regardless of experience in the area.

National Archives Update

Data protection toolkit

We have now launched our new data protection toolkit for archive services, delivered by Naomi Korn Associates in collaboration with an advisory group of archivists. The toolkit presents a simplified overview of the statutory, regulatory, ethical and policy essentials when providing access to information in archives. Throughout, the toolkit will support you in moving away from the idea that there is a single 'correct answer' in favour of a deeper and broader understanding, leading to consistent and reasoned decision-making.

Sign up for access to the toolkit at: www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/data-protection-toolkit-for-archives-request-for-access-tickets-163188921457.

Co-supervise a PhD student in 2022-23

The call to academics who would be interested in co-supervising a Collaborative Doctoral Partnership (CDP) PhD studentship with The National Archives is closing soon. Two CDPs will be available starting in the academic year 2022-23. The CDP scheme is a unique opportunity for academics to engage with the heritage sector, collaborate with The National Archives' research-active experts and support a student to develop a distinctive research pathway.

Enquire about the CPD scheme by 27 August at:

<https://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/about/our-research-and-academic-collaboration/research-education-and-training/collaborative-phds>.

Inclusive recruitment advice clinics 1 September onwards

To complement our inclusive recruitment training series, we are now offering one-to-one advice clinics with an expert from Creative & Cultural Skills. These 30-minute conversations will allow you to ask questions specific to your organisation's situation and to receive tailored advice. Topics that you could discuss include apprenticeships, volunteers, workforce development policies or inclusive job descriptions.

Sign up at:

www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/inclusive-recruitment-individual-advice-clinics-tickets-162556407591.

Manage Your Collections webinar
8 September

Join us for a webinar about Manage Your Collections (MYC), a tool which allows you to publish and edit your collections information directly into our catalogue Discovery. It can be used as the primary means of getting collections data online or as a second point of access. The webinar will give an overview of Discovery, the MYC Excel template for uploading and the metadata mapper. We welcome participants from across the archives sector, especially those who currently don't have the means to publish collections information online. After the demo, there will be plenty of time for Q&As.
